

Message Operator Notes

Information to Help the Operator Handle the Message

Operator notes (Op Notes) are optional. There are times when extra information or explanation is needed in a message. Op Notes provide a way to include this information with the message.

Addressee Op Note

An Op Note may be inserted at the end of the Addressee information, typically after the telephone figures, to provide information related to handling or delivering the message as in the following example.

JESSIE A SHEPPERD
495 EAST FIRST STREET NW
BREMERTON WA 98310
360 555 2745 OP NOTE EVENINGS ONLY

Signature Op Note

An Op Note may be inserted after the Signature, before the end of the message, relating to reply and/or servicing matters or for any extra explanatory information to help ensure the accuracy of the message.

OP NOTE SEND REPLY TO KCEOC ON KD7WDG-4 BBS ON 223.58 MHZ

Notice

Op Notes never appear in the Text portion of the message.

The pro-word "OP NOTE" is used to introduce this information when transmitting the message.

Op Notes are not normally considered part of the message and are not delivered to the addressee.
